

Another collector displaying old newspaper and magazine issues containing important events of the Kuwait history. — Photos courtesy Expo965 Team.

make our official correspondence from. We are also looking to participate abroad and are waiting for invitations, preferably from Kuwaiti embassies abroad, especially during the national celebrations to present Kuwait's history to the public," he explained.

Most Important Items

"Our member collectors have many rare and interesting items. For instance, one of them has the passport of the late popular Egyptian singer Um Kalthoum, which was issued when Egypt was a kingdom. Also, another collector has a document of the late Sheikh Mubarak Al-Kabeer from the 19th century," Shimmeri told Kuwait Times. Shimmeri collects documents related to old Kuwaiti cinema and theatre.

"I have old cinema and theatre tickets. I also have brochures related to cinema and theatre, in addition to some old magazines and newspapers that are related to important historical events including sports, politics, death of rulers, national occasions and so on," he stated.

He called on the government to support the team, mainly by providing a building to house their collections. "We have the objects and items, but we need a place to display them. Now is the best season to participate in exhibitions, especially at schools, as summer is a dead period," concluded Shimmeri.

New collectors are welcome to join the team and can contact it on 60414441 or 99999898, or find it on Instagram and Snapchat @Expo965.

Members of the Expo965 Team posing with the old Kuwaiti flag at one of their events.

Collector displays antique mortar along with other wooden antiques.

One of the collectors displaying his antiques including an old money bank that was popular in Kuwait called 'Balaa' Albeiza' (small coin swallower).