

Tokyo Fashion Week

Models display creations by Japanese designer Yu Amatsu in the finale at the 'Hanae Mori manuscrit' brand's 2016 autumn/winter collection show in Tokyo yesterday, during the Tokyo Fashion Week. — AP/AFP photos

Models display creations designed by Vietnam's Nguyen Cong Tri during the 2016 Autumn/Winter Collection.

Vicky Pattison is the new face of Ann Summers

The former 'Geordie Shore' star, who has raked in an impressive £1 million since she won 'I'm A Celebrity... Get Me Out of Here!' last year, has reportedly been approached by the sexy firm to front their new raunchy lingerie campaign. A source told The Sun newspaper: "It [the news] will be confirmed soon. She's thrilled." The 28-year-old beauty sparked rumors she was teaming up with the British multinational retailer when she uploaded a photograph of her posing in one of the brand's sex outfits. Meanwhile, news the brunette babe has nabbed a gig with Ann Summers comes just a few days after she announced she was turning her back on Newcastle in order to set up home in Essex so she's closer to London for work.

Taking to her Twitter account last week, she tweeted: "Big day... HUGE DAY FOR ME!!! New autobiography finally out AND my offer on my new property has just been accepted!!! ESSEX HERE I COME!" Since her jungle stint in December, Vicky's career has gone from strength-to-strength as she recently became a regular panellist on 'Loose Women' and is reportedly being lined up for a guest appearance on 'The Only Way is Essex'. — Bang Showbiz

Erin Heatherton battled with her body image

Erin Heatherton

The blonde model landed one of the most sought-after jobs in fashion when she became a Victoria's Secret Angel in 2010, just two years after first walking for the lingerie giant. Erin hung up her wings in 2012 after feeling the pressure of having to look perfect all the time and becoming stressed with worry about her figure, but since she made the decision to stop working for the company she has felt empowered. The 27-year-old revealed her battle in an emotional post to her 695,000 followers on Instagram. Along with a sultry photo of herself in fuchsia underwear and a black tank top emblazoned with the logo 'Empowered by Failure', she wrote: "The breakdown to breakthrough moment in my life has allowed me to become the truest version of myself. In my moment of 'failure', I stood in the face of adversity. I was struggling with my body image and the pressures to fulfill the demands of perfectionism upon me. I am not perfect.

"Through this struggle, however, I found the strength to love myself. I stood in my power. I thought of one of my favorite quotes, 'Nearly all men can stand adversity, but if you want to test a man's character, give him power' - Abraham Lincoln. "I look back on that moment now, and I embrace it. This feeling I once perceived as "failure" was, in truth, a powerful awakening for me to stand behind my purpose in life. I stepped away from hiding behind a fabricated version of myself. I no longer put actions behind my fears and insecurities. I made a choice to redirect my energy to be a catalyst for change. To create a channel for women to become the truest versions of themselves, along with me. (Stay tuned for more...) In the end, if you aren't being true to yourself, then what the the point. #rebelwacause #empowerment#womensempowerment#empoweredbyyou (sic)". Erin made her breakthrough appearing in Diane Von Furstenberg's catwalk show in 2006.

—Bang Showbiz

Iggy wants Kylie to release contours kit

Iggy Azalea wants Kylie Jenner to release a contours kit. The 'Black Widow' rapper is a big fan of Kylie's Lip Kit By Kylie line - with her sixth Kylie Cosmetics release selling out in just 15 minutes last week - and decided to pitch a new idea to her on Twitter. The 'Keeping Up with the Kardashians' star tweeted: "I'm already working on something, just wanted to get your opinion of course." To which Iggy replied: "@KylieJenner I think you should consider doing a contour kits." Kylie, 18, is open to Iggy's idea and told her she had just sent her some direct messages to discuss the contour kits. She tweeted: "I slid in ur dms (sic)" Iggy then wrote: "@KylieJenner cool, ill buy 100. lol! (sic)" Kylie - whose sister is model Kendall Jenner - has been thrilled with the reception to her makeup range, which includes lipstick and lip liner duo colours Kylie Candy K, Dolce K, True Brown K, Posie K, Koko K, Mary Jo K and 22.

After her last release sold out in 15 minutes, Kylie took to Instagram to thank her fans, writing: "We sold out in 15 minutes today! And we only keep making more every time! Thank you for all the love and support, I will keep bringing beautiful and amazing quality products to you guys!"

— Bang Showbiz

Kylie Jenner