

Saffafir market ready for camping season

KUWAIT: Souq Saffafir - a venue selling products made of metals such as copper, brass, and tin - is bracing itself for the upcoming camping season in Kuwait, which begins this year in mid-November and lasts until spring. After a long hiatus caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, the market is thriving with clients seeking the best tools for their leisure time in the desert. —KUNA photos

Security news now essential aspect of combating crime

DUBAI: Security affairs news has now become an essential part of raising social awareness, combating crime and illegal substances, and prevention of accidents, Director of Security Media at the Interior Ministry Col Nasser Abu Sulaib said Wednesday. The remarks by Abu Sulaib came during the participation of his department in a workshop on the role of security media as part of the activities of the pavilion of the General Secretariat of the GCC at Dubai Expo 2020.

During the workshop, the Kuwaiti department presented two working papers, the first under the title "The experience of the General Administration of Relations and Security Media in the fight against drugs", presented by Abu Sulaib, and the second

Nasser Abu Sulaib

Sulaib pointed out that the security media strategy in Kuwait is based on intensifying efforts to raise social awareness about illegal drugs through extensive and systematic media campaigns spread over all media and social media platforms.

Marshad spoke about the success of the security establishment's experience in addressing the coronavirus pandemic, which was and still is appreciated and praised. — KUNA on "The role of the General Administration of Relations during the COVID-19 pandemic", presented by Assistant Director of the Public Relations Department at the Ministry of Interior Col Yousif Marshad.

Abu Sulaib highlighted the qualitative and technical shift witnessed by the Kuwaiti Security Media Department, which formed a prominent informative media window and a main source for obtaining correct and documented information.

News in brief

Police arrest child molester

KUWAIT: Farwaniya detectives arrested a resident accused of molesting a child. The child's father told police that his 12-year-old son told him he was sexually abused by a person he does not know in Farwaniya. He said the suspect lured him to play football, then took him aside and committed the act. A police source said detectives reviewed CCTV recordings and identified the suspect, who was also identified in a lineup by the victim.

Dentist arrested

Public prosecution ordered the arrest of a dentist accused by a teacher of beating her in a Jahra clinic following a dispute between them. The teacher attached a medical report with her complaint stating that she sustained an injury to her lip and various scratches. Detectives are investigating.

Police insulted

A Syrian woman insulted several deportation policemen in an attempt to prevent them from deporting her brother. Sources said when several deportees were boarding a bus, policemen were surprised by a woman attacking them and attempting to board the bus that was heading to the airport. She then sat in the middle of the street in protest against the deportation of her brother. When police spoke to her and took her away, she insulted them and threatened them, claiming she has "contacts" and no one can stop her. The woman was arrested and taken to Jleeb police station, where she was detained for further action.